BIS@80 Commemorative Logo Design

Competition Entry

Concept Note

The design begins where BIS itself began — the original hexagonal emblem, kept fully intact as the anchor of the mark, a signal that eighty years of trust are never diluted, only built upon. From it rises a bold, ribboned “80,” its glossy blue folds echoing the emblem's own form, as though the identity of BIS has simply grown into this milestone.

Around this pairing, tricolour arcs sweep into an ascending green arrow — a visual promise that BIS's role isn't only commemorative but forward-moving, propelling India toward a Viksit Bharat. Within that arc, a quiet skyline of factories, buildings and wind turbines stands for the quality infrastructure BIS makes possible, from shop floor to energy grid.

Below, six icons distil BIS's mandate — standardisation, testing, conformity assessment, certification, consumer awareness and citizen empowerment — turning an institutional mission into a story anyone can read at a glance. Framed in navy and white, the mark stays crisp in colour or monochrome, on a banner or a lapel pin alike: eight decades of trust, designed to carry the next eighty.
